

Malmö, Sweden: When high climate ambitions meet large-scale cooperation [1]

23 May 2014 - 11:00am
Béatrice Alcaraz

Since July 2013, the city hall of Malmö has been headed by Ms. Katrin Stjernfeldt Jammeh.

Sweden's third largest city, home to 312,000 inhabitants, is widely recognized as one of the greenest and most sustainable cities in the world, with CO2 reduction targets significantly more ambitious than that of the national government.

On that front, the Social Democrat Stjernfeldt Jammeh plans to perpetuate the successful work of her predecessor, with the cooperation of Malmö's neighbour cities.

As (...)

Source:

<http://www.energy-cities.eu/Malmo-Sweden-When-high-climate> [2]

Source URL: <https://pocacito.eu/blog/2014-05-23/malm%C3%B6-sweden-when-high-climate-ambitions-meet-large-scale-cooperation>

Links

[1] <https://pocacito.eu/blog/2014-05-23/malm%C3%B6-sweden-when-high-climate-ambitions-meet-large-scale-cooperation>

[2] <http://www.energy-cities.eu/Malmo-Sweden-When-high-climate>